

Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary
Presidential Search Committee
March 2010 Update

The Presidential Search Committee continues in its task of seeking the next President of Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary. The Committee is very pleased with the quantity and quality of names submitted for consideration. Our current pool of more than 85 names of accomplished and qualified people represents academic, pastoral, administrative, and other institutionally-related fields.

The Committee is continuing its process of research of those candidates with whom we wish to engage in more in-depth conversations, which will continue through the scheduled Board of Trustees meeting in April and until such time as a final candidate is chosen as the Committee's nominee to the Board of Trustees.

Please continue to hold the Committee and all those being considered in prayer as we proceed through this time of exploration and discernment.

Sincerely,
Conrad Sharps,
Chair
