

D.MIN. INDEPENDENT STUDY FORM

An Independent Study is not a tutorial. The student should not plan on faculty instruction, but on guidance in defining the goals and resources for the study and a final evaluation of the study. Faculty members are advised not to offer an Independent Study in place of a regular course or in any instance that could be considered an exception to regular course requirements.

Planned studies must be proposed and developed in consultation with the course supervisor and approved by the student's advisor.
